The form has three basic components: a form title a grid a large picture as a preview of a selected file The structure of the main form is as follows: Upper control area, left/right border: Title, file name Grid: Main grid with 2x3 columns Picture: Large picture is inserted here button/command: main program button (when click execute program) I want the control area on the left be constant for all forms, except for the main program button which I want to move to the far right of the control area, on every form (shown as gray). My problem is: I have set the location and size of the form title/control area on the left/right side by means of TableLayoutPanel and Anchor properties, but I do not know how I can set the location of the upper control area of the form. If the upper control area is not set, it is possible to set the size (with some workaround) by setting the Anchor property of the label inside the main grid. However, when I attempt to set the position (with Anchor property) of the upper control area, it is no longer possible to set the size of the form title/control area. Any pointers on how I can do this are appreciated. A: You
