cakewalk picks up where sonar platinum left off, and has continually evolved with regular updates delivering significant stability and performance enhancements, with a focus on stability, cakewalk by bandlab is taking things to the next level. advanced audio processing, integrated collaboration tools and cutting edge features, and hundreds of bug fixes are just the start of what users report to be the most stable version they have used. rig playerthe rig player lets you play and simulate the input signal of any virtual audio rig, from any type of source, you can layer different setups and have the real time response of the whole rig in your daw, the possibilities are pretty much endless, when we first announced the beta 3 release, it didn't seem like that much would change, except with a more refined user interface and a new way of creating presets. but we've truly made changes under the hood that will improve cakewalk's performance, stability, and add-on compatibility, that means cakewalk is now performing, running and loading plugins as expected. but there are still some limitations as expected from a beta release, so please make sure to back up your plugins before using and always test anything you download/use from the bandlab website.the changes start with cakewalk's updated preset format, with the next generation smart preset generator, cakewalk is now generating custom presets that have been optimized and tuned for our users' needs. bandlab listened to our beta testers and now we are pleased to release cakewalk beta 3 with a number of improvements, including:- a completely new preset manager that lets you work with as many presets as you like at once- automated comparisons to ensure the best preset is always selectednew reminder system to let you know when your presets have been updated- several other features that help you keep organized please note that cakewalk is still in beta, so if something isn't working as expected or the software doesn't seem to be responding correctly, there is a good chance it's an issue with cakewalk or a plugin, not the plugin interface or bandlab's servers. we're still ironing out these kinks, so if you encounter any issues, please contact us at support@bandlab.com. we're happy to help! 5ec8ef588b
